Democrats Will Wage Fight to Regain Control Of Board of Supervisors

Main Democratic Issue This Fall is for the Position of County Highway Superintendent, Judge Culliton Declares.

BOARD APPOINTMENTS

County Chairman Culliton Sets Forth Issue at County Committee Meeting Monday.

Uster county's Democracy will wage its fight this fall to regain control of the Board of Supervisors so that the Democrats may have the selection of a county superintendent of highways to replace James F. Loughran, who the Democrats illegally ousted and were forced to resign with a year's back pay by the decision of the highest court in the state. That this was the main issue of the fall campaign was made plain Monday afternoon by County Chairman Bernard A. Culliton at the organization meeting of the Democratic county committee held in the Municipal Auditorium. City Judge Culliton was unanimously re-elected county chairman at the meeting. The other officers selected were: Associate county chairman, Miss Margaret Kennedy; secretary, Ray LeFevre, and treasurer, William Edelmut.

County Chairman Culliton, after thinking the county committee for the honor conferred on him by re-electing him county chairman, devoted the greater part of his remarks to a discussion of the fall campaign and the importance of electing a Democratic Board of Supervisors. "You know, or you should know," said the judge addressing the committee, "what has been going on in that board, and that what is going to be the main fight this fall is going to be based on the office of supervisor. Our main campaign issue this fall will be on the election of supervisors."

"Same Issue Again" "The main issue," said the judge, "is the same one that was up two years ago. When the present board was elected, that issue is over the office of county superintendent of highways, and I want to say one or two things in regard to that office."

Rape Mr. Loughran Judge Culliton said that according to county law the county superintendent is appointed by the Board of Supervisors, and that the "customary thing is when a board appoints a man that man is responsible to the board which appoints him. It had been the custom of the Board of Supervisors to give out money to county highway equipment in individual policies."

"Upon coming into office the present board appointed an insurance committee and this committee after a study of the question decided that the better policy would be to stop insuring individually and adopt the fleet policy covering all county trucks and automobiles, which would cost less and give the same protection."

Judge Culliton said that by the adoption of this insurance plan the Democrats had saved the county "about $10,000 in premiums."

"Since March 5, when Mr. Loughran was reinstated there has been added to the county equipment certain automobiles and trucks," said Judge Culliton, "and in placing insurance on them the insurance committee has been ignored and the insurance has been taken out in the same old way of individual policies in spite of the fact that there is a fleet policy in existence."

Fight Over Office "Right there is the main point of contention in this election," said Judge Culliton. "Two years ago the people returned a Democratic Board of Supervisors on the basis of making a change in the office of county superintendent of highways. During the term of the new board which takes office the first of January the term of the county superintendent of highways expires and the appointment of a man to fill the position rests in the hands of the board to be elected in November."

"Whether the county is to receive the same type of service from the office has been receiving or whether the people rise up and say they want a change is one of the deciding factors in the county election."

"Item to Turn Away" "That is one item to turn away in your mind," said the judge to the committee. "There are other items but I don't want to take up your time now in discussing them."

In closing his remarks Judge Culliton said that he was proud of the board of supervisors. "They have endeavored to give the county an economical administration and they have saved money for the taxpayers."

Men in Nazi Uniforms And Short-Lived Riot

New York, Oct. 8 (AP).—The sight of five men wearing Nazi uniforms in the predominantly Jewish garment workers' district today precipitated a short-lived riot.

Displaying swastikas, the five men drove into the section in a truck advertising a Nazi rally. About three thousand persons, police estimated, stormed the truck, yanked out the occupants and beat them.

The speedy arrival of police halted the riot. No one was seriously injured, and the police arrested three persons on disorderly conduct charges.

Matthews' Views On PWA Projects

The following communication has been received from John W. Matthews, a member of the Board of Water Commissioners, concerning possible projects for PWA approval:

To the Taxpayers of Kingston: Inasmuch as our high school project has been accepted it is possible that there arises in the minds of the interested citizens and taxpayers the question as to why certain other projects are not being accepted by the PWA officials and engineers.

As a member of the Board of Water Commissioners I wish to inform the public that there are certain projects which will have of necessity to be constructed in the future, which if the city offered to pay a reasonable share of the expenses, in all probability these projects would be approved and men could be put to work immediately. Among these projects are the extension of our water line to the city limits on Hurley avenue where property owners are waiting for this construction in order to build homes which will be supplied with city water; the construction of a line along Wrentham street, where residents are willing to buy our water at a profit and which water we have in abundance to sell; the fencing of Cooper Lake where trespassers are contaminating our water supply; the protecting of pipelines at stream crossings and the filling of the basin of the Binnewater reservoir, where filtered and treated water is leaking to waste in large quantities.

Two major facts should be borne in mind by the people, namely that unwise projects in the construction of which Kingston will not assume a fair share of the expense involved and where the construction of the project will reflect discredit upon anyone who approves, have not and will not be approved. Further that if reasonable projects backed by common sense and some Kingston money are not proposed our city will lose its share of Federal aid and the loss will have to be made up by the taxpayers in home relief.

It would seem an opportune time to drop partisan politics and exercise intelligent cooperation in the interest of both the taxpayers and those who badly need employment. It is not a time to turn down Federal assistance which is now available because we are not willing to do our share.

Buffalo's Strike Still On

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP).—Women and children joined the picket lines of Buffalo's striking relief workers today as relief authorities continued to "outwit" them. The strike, called last Friday in protest against a $15 a month WPA wage scale, entered its fourth day still free of violence. The men demand $150 a month for families of five dependents. William F. Sidman, chairman of the strike committee, said no striker had returned to work and that the men were determined to fight for the higher wage. He said there were 2,800 men on strike while relief authorities still cling to an estimate of about 1,000.

Alleged Confession By Mrs. Creighton That She Killed Mrs. Applegate

Police Inspector Announces Mrs. John Creighton Confesses She and Everett R. Applegate Gave Mrs. Applegate Arsenic.

TWO MOTIVES

Applegate Made No Confession But Was Taken For Arraignment on Murder Charges.

Mineola, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP).—Unemotionally, a middle-aged housewife, who twice before was acquitted of poison-murder charges, confessed today, Inspector Harold H. King of Nassau county police said, that she and Everett R. Applegate had poisoned Applegate's wife by giving her arsenic.

The alleged confession came from Mrs. John Creighton as a sensational climax to an investigation into mysterious circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Applegate, 36, at her Baldwin, L. I., home on September 27.

Since Sunday night, Applegate, 38, and prominent in American Legion circles on Long Island, has been held on a charge of criminally assaulting Ruth Creighton, 15-year-old daughter of his alleged accomplice.

Inspector King said Mrs. Creighton had made her confession early today after almost continuous questioning all night by police and District Attorney Martin W. Littleton and his staff.

Applegate, King said, had made no confession, but was taken to Mineola courthouse for arraignment with Mrs. Creighton on murder charges.

The inspector said later Mrs. Creighton had made a statement "clearing up" two cases in Newark, N. J., in which the woman was tried on murder charges and acquitted. Arsenic figured in both cases. King did not elaborate on his statement.

Mrs. Creighton, smiling and with an air of confidence, was taken to her home in Baldwin to collect personal belongings before going to the courthouse.

She walked with a jaunty air and smiled at a crowd which gathered at the courthouse.

Inspector King said there were two motives linked with the alleged slaying of Mrs. Applegate, one of which was Applegate's relations with his daughter. He refused to say what the other motive was.

King said Mrs. Creighton told him she knew of the relations between Applegate and her daughter.

Lived With Applegate Mrs. Creighton and her husband had been living with the Applegates in Baldwin, L. I., for more than a year.

In 1923, she and Creighton had been tried in Newark, N. J., for the alleged slaying of her brother, Charles R. Avery, who died of arsenic poisoning. They were acquitted, and a short time later Mrs. Creighton went on trial charged with the death of Creighton's mother, also a victim of arsenic. Again she was acquitted.

The investigation of Mrs. Applegate's death, at first believed to have been caused by a heart attack, turned to the murder angle when 9.7 grains of arsenic were found in her body. The autopsy showed the poison had been administered on more than one occasion.

Mrs. Creighton in her alleged confession said the arsenic had been given to Mrs. Applegate by two persons, King said, but did not mention Applegate in that connection. He said, however, that she had implicated the slain woman's husband elsewhere in the document.

Mrs. Creighton was taken to the Baldwin home she had shared with the Applegates to pick up a few personal belongings and then was taken to Nassau county police headquarters.

Applegate, who had been held on the assault charge, was returned to headquarters, where, King said, he and Mrs. Creighton would be arraigned today.

Mrs. Creighton's husband was also held as a material witness.

Another Income Tax Case. New Orleans, Oct. 8 (AP).—The government called to trial today a second high political associate of the late Senator Huey P. Long on charges of attempting to defeat and evade income tax payments.

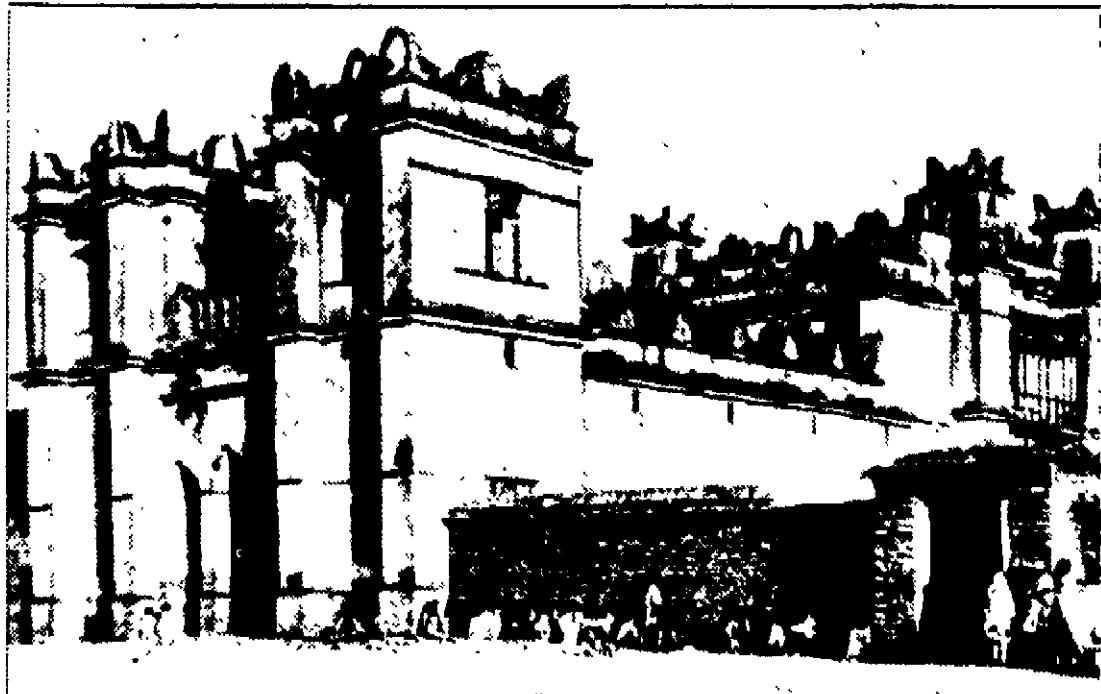

Abel L. Shushan, president of the Orleans levee board and head of a wholesale mercantile business here, is charged with attempting to defeat and evade payment of $22,319.34 of income tax for the years 1929 to 1932. The government convicted State Representative Joseph Fisher of Jefferson Parish. He is serving an 18 months sentence in the Atlanta penitentiary.

Return To School Flag

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 8 (AP).—Even as Carlton Nichols, Jr., and his father prepared to face the Lynn school committee which considers tonight Carlton's refusal to salute the American flag, four children in nearby Saugus joined the boy in his stand. The four refused to salute the flag. Superintendent Vernon W. Evans of the Saugus schools said, however, that the members of Nichols' household, a religious group to which the Nichols family belongs, threaten old Carlton with legal action because he said the flag was the "emblem of the devil."

Art Objects Are Now Ready for Delivery to City's Art Committee

Judson Smith, Woodstock Artist, Who Supervised the Art Project for Ulster County, Said Pictures Are Framed and Ready for Delivery to City's Committee.

The art projects for Kingston are now ready for delivery to Kingston's art committee. It was stated this morning by Judson Smith, Woodstock artist, who had supervision of the work relief art project in which a number of Woodstock artists participated by contributing their talent in painting a number of pictures, and also turning out other art objects, intended not only for public buildings in Kingston, but to other sections of Ulster county.

Mr. Smith said that 10 pictures that had been selected by the city's art committee were already framed and ready for acceptance on the part of the city. In addition there are sixteen lithographs and etchings, which are not framed, a bas-relief of Dr. M. J. Michael, for years superintendent of the Kingston school system, and the plaster cast of a deer.

This deer was intended for installation in Academy Park, but for that purpose it would have to be cast in stone, which, Mr. Smith stated, is another project. Whether the project to cast the deer in stone had been approved he was not able to state. He said that the plaster cast could be installed in either the city hall or the high school, but, of course, could not be placed out of doors.

Two murals to be installed in the upper corridor of the high school are also ready.

Mr. Smith said that he expected the art committee to shortly visit Woodstock and officially accept the art objects that had been selected for Kingston.

Oppose Labor Party

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 8 (AP).—Conservatives among the leadership of the American Federation of Labor united today to combat growing sentiment within the organization in favor of an independent labor party. The proposal, recurring annually, gained new vigor this year with presentation to the resolutions committee at the annual convention of a request that the executive council take the initiative in forming an independent political organization.

The proposal, offered by David Dubinsky and other leaders of the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, asserted that the two major parties were likely to desert labor when dominated by their "reactionary elements."

Says Hoover Is Trying To "Get Back"

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP)—Senator Robinson (D., Ark.) says Herbert Hoover's Oakland, Calif., address attacking the New Deal was "what might reasonably have been expected of an ex-president, defeated in his efforts at re-election, who is seeking to get back."

The statement of Robinson, who is Democratic leader in the Senate, was issued through the Democratic National committee. In it he accused Mr. Hoover of "misstatements and distortions of the ordinary propaganda" and of "bookkeeping errors" ranging from $5,000,000,000 to $9,000,000,000 in discussing government finances.

"He suggests," Robinson said, "that the inevitable result of the Roosevelt administration if it perseveres is that we will see one of these three horsemen: the land—taxation, or repudiation, or inflation."

"It seems to me that the general opinion of the country is that if Mr. Hoover had been re-elected and his drifting, do-nothing policy had persevered, the horsemen we would have had to face would have been wholesale starvation, complete bankruptcy or revolution."

"Like every other Republican speaker of the present era, while deploring the relief expenditures, he gives no hint of any project, plan, or even an idea of a substitute program to keep the unemployed from hunger and hardship until such a time as industry can and will put them back to work."

SPREADING AUTOS LOSE RACE WITH DEATH TODAY

Batavia, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—Three speeding automobiles, converging on this city from Rochester, Buffalo and Niagara Falls, lost a race with death today.

As the cars bearing volunteers ready to give blood to Corp. Fordus Easton of the state police, reached St. Jerome's hospital the state trooper died.

Easton underwent an operation for stomach ulcers Sunday morning.

The race with death started soon after 10 o'clock last night when a call went out over the police teletype for blood donors and was relayed over the Rochester police radio to Buffalo and Niagara Falls. In less than an hour cars were speeding out of the three cities with volunteers hastily rounded by police.

The Sickles Hill Billy Band of Saugerties, who won the audition on the first amateur program in Kingston August 21, will be heard on the Fred Allen program Wednesday night at 9 o'clock over Station WEAF.

Slemp Says Lowden Could Defeat F. D. R.

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP)—C. Bascom Slemp, who was secretary to President Coolidge, believes former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois "could be elected" president next year carrying a banner, "Get back to sane government."

Slemp, now practicing law here, said in an interview that Lowden was "really the exponent of Republican policies acceptable to the farm belt," that he was "pleasing to the east," and undoubtedly could win, if nominated, over President Roosevelt.

"Whether his age would be a bar I do not know," added the former presidential secretary and member of the House for 16 years. Lowden is 74.

Slemp said Senator Borah of Idaho had the "strongest popular and sentimental appeal today before the public," but he thought efforts already were under way to block his nomination.

"I believe the fight can be won by the Republicans if it can be financed," he said, adding that this might be done by various organizations, such as the American Liberty League, appointing a joint finance committee "to bring about a coalition effort which would result in a candidate satisfactory to elements in both parties."

While there has been a lot of talk about selecting a candidate from the west, Slemp said it was "more important to select one who could carry New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois."

"Those four states, with Michigan and California," he said, "will provide 180 electoral votes and the man who will carry those will be the next president."

He said he felt sure Ohio, Michigan and California would be Republican in 1936 "and in all probability Pennsylvania and New York."

Sees Repudiation Of Action on Judges

Albany, Oct. 8—Pointing to the fact that Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley of Albany, unanimously named by the Republican Third Judicial District convention for a second term, is also being supported by the Independent Citizens' Party, former Judge Isaiah Fellows of Cohoes, dean of practicing attorneys in Albany county, today issued a statement declaring that people of the district "will repudiate the action of Democratic political leaders for failing to endorse Justice Staley."

"In the few rare instances where a political party has violated and ignored the principle of endorsing a justice of the Supreme Court, after he has satisfactorily completed an elective term of office, the people have been quick to repudiate such action," said Judge Fellows. "In this district in 1926 the Democrats refused endorsement to Justice Hasbrouck. The electorate repudiated that conduct and reelected Justice Hasbrouck."

Judge Fellows answered the charge of Democratic politicians that Republicans had failed to support Democratic justices by saying: "We challenge Democratic leaders to point to any single instance of the Republicans in this district failing, during more than the last half of century, to endorse a Democratic justice of the Supreme Court for reelection upon the expiration of his term of office, after he has once been elected by the people instead of merely being appointed by the governor of his party."

Public Speaking Course at Y. M. C. A.

"When will the public speaking course start?" is a question being asked at the Y. M. C. A. very often. The answer is, October 22 at 8 o'clock, as this is the time set for the opening of the class.

The course covered will consist of developing self confidence, how to prepare an address, platform presence and personality, how to open and close a talk, how to gain interest and how to gather material for a talk. These are just a few of the subjects covered by the course.

Many men who take this course do not wish to become public speakers, but rather they find the knowledge and ability gained through the course greatly aids them in expressing their thoughts in ordinary conversation.

Thousands of business and professional men have taken this course and have greatly benefited by it. The Y. M. C. A. is offering a real service by making this course available to the men of this city.

Not more than 20 men will be accepted for the group. This will give ample opportunity for personal attention. There are a few places left but they are being filled rapidly.

Neutral Rights Have Caused Strife in Post

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP)—The American policy of insisting on neutral rights in the World War—now held in deep contrast to the policy enunciated by President Roosevelt and Congress—aroused sharp controversies during the stirring days of 1914-1918.

As war clouds, driven by the German advance through Belgium, rolled over much of the world, the United States argued for the right of Americans to travel on any ships they pleased, and to go where they wished, so far as their travels were consonant with international law.

When Americans lost their lives on torpedoed vessels, there arose the passionate controversy which bulked large in the events leading to America's entry into the war.

President Woodrow Wilson, in a letter to a congressional leader, had declared the American policy by asserting that it would be derogatory to American honor to refrain from insisting upon American rights to "freedom of the seas" under international law.

On the other hand, there was a widespread sentiment against travel by Americans on ships of belligerents. Resolutions were introduced in congress by Senator Gore of Oklahoma and Representative McLenore of Texas under which Americans would have been warned against traveling on ships of warring powers carrying mounted guns.

Both resolutions were based on the idea that though Americans had a right to use such vessels, exercise of that right would subject the United States to the danger of being brought into the war through inflamed sentiment aroused by American deaths.

President Wilson, however, opposed the resolutions and they never were adopted.

CCC Men Dedicate Their New Theatre

Spoken, Oct. 7.—On Tuesday evening, October 1, CCC Camp No. 215, 553, dedicated their new theatre with a minstrel show and dance. The dedication exercises started at 8:30 p. m. with an overture by the Co. 215 orchestra. This was their first appearance. The orchestra was under the direction of David A. Kessler, music instructor of the camp. After the overture the stage was turned over to Capt. Sprague W. Ashley by the Co. 215 Dramatic Club who had built the stage, wired it, made and painted the scenery and named it "The Roosevelt Theatre" in honor of the founder of the CCC. Captain Ashley accepted the theatre and most heartily thanked the members of the Dramatic Club for their hard work. At this point the drapes covering the stage were pulled aside by Miss Ann Ashley, daughter of the commanding officer, and the crowded recreation hall had their first glimpse of the front of the new stage and the curtain. It is a wine colored curtain with the camp emblem painted on it and the name "Roosevelt Theatre" painted under the emblem. A short overture followed the dedication and then the curtain was raised on the set for the show. This was a palace scene, a mass of pillars. This set of scenery was painted by Waldo Pach, a member of the camp. It is a very beautiful piece of work. Mr. Pach had never painted scenery before but is a very promising artist specializing in pastel work. The set was greatly admired by all present and Mr. Pach received the congratulations due him.

The show was then started by the opening chorus. Alexander Rosenzweig acting as master of ceremonies, introduced all the principal actors. Songs were sung by William Frohlich, Andrew McDermott, Joe Mink, Lawrence Beck and William MacComas. There was also a fine dancing quartet consisting of Waldo Pach, William MacComas, John Parades, and William Frohlich. Bill Frohlich did a specialty dance. Bill is a very fine tap dancer and certainly deserves a lot of credit for building up this snappy dancing team. The comedians of the show were William MacComas, Bert Suttlin, Waldo Pach, Kenneth Donnelly, Dow Palmer and John Parades. Horace M. Gardner, the dramatic instructor of the camp, acted as interlocutor. He also rehearsed the performance and directed it.

The show was a big hit with the members of the camp and their invited guests. The recreation hall was crowded, even standing room was at a premium. The show was over at 10:30 p. m. and dancing was held until 12:30 p. m., with music by "Doc Kessler's" orchestra. The entire affair was greatly enjoyed by all who attended.

It is understood that the members of Co. 215 will produce at least one play a month. During the winter months the CWA players will assist the Dramatic Club in giving the members fine entertainment and recreation.

The entire company is proud to have such a capable officer as Captain Ashley for their commander. It is he who plans the recreation schedules and sees to it that the recreation hall compares with any hall of its kind in the state.

Company 215 was awarded the prize for having the best camp in the 4th District, N. Y., for the month of August.

The library of Co. 215 contains over 2,500 volumes. It is considered the largest in the state for a CCC camp. Another addition was recently added to accommodate new books received from Brooklyn. Any person having books to donate to the camp please drop a line to "Educational Adviser", Co. 215, Camp 8-53, Boiceville, N. Y.

The Study Hall at Camp 8-53 was recently redecorated. Plans are now under way to finish the floors. The fall educational program is to begin soon. The latest addition to the program is a course in "Service Station Salesmanship".

The officers of Company 215 wish to thank all those kind-hearted citizens who so generously donated furniture for the recreation hall. They may be sure that they have contributed to the happiness of the members from Ulster county.

More furniture is needed to make the hall cozy. Any person having any of the following equipment or material please communicate with Educational Adviser, Camp 8-53, Boiceville, N. Y. and he will see that a truck calls for the goods: Billiard table, typewriter, musical instruments, table lamps, tables, chairs, piano, ash trays, desks, filing cabinets, rugs, pictures, easy chairs, sofas, books.

Democrats Will Fight To Regain Control

however, there were no endorsements made or would be made.

In Memory of DeWitt.

Judge Culliton called attention to the loss the Democratic party had recently sustained in the death of Supervisor Matthew T. E. DeWitt of Hurley, and he paid a high tribute to Mr. DeWitt's memory as an outstanding Democrat and resident of Ulster county. In respect to Mr. DeWitt's memory the committee stood in silence for a brief period.

Two Resolutions.

Two resolutions were read by Judge Culliton, one introduced by John J. Duffy of the town of Rosendale amending Rule 11, section 1, of the committee rules to the effect that no person shall be permitted to vote at unofficial primaries or caucuses unless he be an enrolled member of the Democratic party, and the other resolution, introduced by Joseph Connelly of the town of Marlborough, that the rules of the county committee be the same as last year.

Met on Last Day.

The committee met yesterday on the last day that it could meet and organize under the law.

Judge Culliton's name was placed before the committee to succeed himself as county chairman by Arthur Rice, and he was the unanimous choice of the committee. The other officers were also elected unanimously.

The committee meeting was not as largely attended as it had been in other years, and a number of proxies were filed with the secretary as the roll was called at the opening of the meeting.

After organizing by electing officers and listening to Judge Culliton's remarks the meeting adjourned.

Aided by high protective tariffs, the industries of India have grown rapidly in recent years, with the result that this country today ranks in the list of modern manufacturing countries.

Parent-Teacher Associations

The P.T.A. of School No. 4 will meet tonight at 7:45 at the school. Principal Dunn of the high school will be the speaker. Refreshments will be served. Each member is requested to bring another member.

Federated Council

The regular monthly meeting of the Federated Council, held at the high school October 2, was lively and most interesting. Mrs. Deegan, membership chairman, gave a short talk and led a discussion on ways and means of procuring members for the units of the Parent-Teacher Association. Many helpful ideas were exchanged and the members felt that a good many difficulties had been solved. Mrs. Wright, publicity chairman, gave a short talk on the "Value of Publicity." It was found, in ensuing discussion, that many units were not keeping press books.

Mrs. Anderson, district publicity chairman, regrettably announced the death of two most prominent and ardent Parent-Teacher workers, Mrs. David I. Mears, a delegate to the organization meeting of the National Congress, and its second president, and Mrs. Stephen Ryder, who was instrumental in forming the New York State Congress.

Mrs. Anderson also announced the National Congress radio broadcasts for October, which will be held each Wednesday at 2:30 p. m., as follows: October 9—"The Forum in Adult Education." Speaker, J. W. Studebaker, commissioner of education, Washington, D. C.

October 16—"The Lengthening Dependence of Young People." Speaker to be announced.

October 23—"Youth Project of the American Council of Education." Speaker, George A. Zook, director of American Council of Education, Washington, D. C.

October 30—"After School, What?" Speaker, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Oyster Bay, N. Y.

Mrs. Craig, president in Mrs. Roosevelt's absence, gave a report of the Parent-Teacher meeting held in Saugerties. At that time Dr. Peabody told of a project to establish nursery schools throughout New York state. Mrs. Craig announced that the Red Cross was sponsoring a drive for "Home and Farm Accident Prevention." Posters and literature were distributed, and each president was asked to send in the number of questionnaire blanks needed in each school. These blanks are to go to every home.

The meeting adjourned with those present wishing Mrs. Craig a pleasant and an interesting trip to Buffalo where she was to attend the P.T.A. Convention, October 7-10.

Young Folks Group.

There will be a meeting of the Young Folks Group of the Temple Emanuel on Thursday at 8 p. m., at 225 Main street. All members are requested to attend.

ASHOKAN.

Ashokan, Oct. 7.—The local union meeting of the Epworth League was held in the Ashokan M. E. Church on Friday, October 4 at 7:30. The meeting was opened by the chairman, Alton Boice of Glenford, with prayer by the Rev. Orson Rice of Woodstock. The West Hurley church choir rendered the singing. Mrs. John H. Saxe, organist. Then the chairman turned the meeting over to the Rev. Bond Brown of Phoenixia, dean of the Winter Institute, who outlined the work. A short discussion followed. The meeting was again turned to the chairman and it was decided to hold the first of the series of six meetings at the Phoenixia M. E. Church, October 11, at 7:30. There will be no meeting on October 18. When the business of the evening was completed, the Rev. J. B. Glenwood, pastor of the Ashokan M. E. church introduced the speaker, Superintendent J. W. Chasey, who gave an interesting talk on the work. It was very much enjoyed by a congregation of nearly two hundred. At the close everyone was invited to the hall and refreshments were served.

The annual election of officers for the Willing Workers was held in the church hall Thursday afternoon, October 3. The following are officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Martin Guinac; vice-president, Mrs. Floyd Merrilow; secretary, Mrs. B. W. Jones; treasurer, Mrs. C. Lyons. On this date all bills were paid. A vote of thanks was given the retiring officers and all pledged their loyalty and support to the new officers. The retiring officers wish to thank all who so splendidly assisted by giving and helping.

Prayer meeting Wednesday evening, October 9, at 7:30 in the lecture room of the church. All are welcome.

The Sunday school will hold an entertainment Friday evening, October 18, in the church hall. This entertainment is in charge of Mrs. Martin Guinac and Donald DuBois.

Young Republicans Of Fourth Ward Take Strong Action

At the business meeting of the Young Republican Club of the Fourth Ward at the club, 460 Delaware avenue, Monday night, Joseph Hudpla, was expelled for "conduct unbecoming a Young Republican".

The action was the outcome of a resolution introduced by Fred Scheim of the executive committee, which recently convened and passed on Hudpla's acceptance of the candidacy for alderman on the Democratic ticket.

After the business session the club was addressed by several speakers including Alderman-at-large John Schwenk, who spoke on why everyone should be interested in government; John Melville, sanitary inspector, who quoted facts and figures to show why the Democratic party has retarded industrial progress and hampered the unemployed in Kingston; and C. Ray Everett, city treasurer, who urged the election of Conrad J. Heiselman for the good of Kingston.

Among other speakers were ward candidates, Frank J. Leirey, present alderman who is running for supervisor, and Walter Lucaszewski, nominee for alderman; and the Rev. A. L. Hughes, former pastor of the Foxhall Avenue A. M. E. Zion Church, who spoke in behalf of Republicanism.

Mr. Everett in addressing the meeting pointed out the needs for sound judgment and experience at this time, when Kingston is on the brink of falling further behind industrially, and gaining a stronger foothold on the upward path which Mayor Heiselman has planned and will work hard to carry out if he is continued in office.

President Joseph Fassbender of the club spoke on the necessity of registering early and of enrolling. Fred Scheim, one of the organizers of the club in the Fourth Ward, also spoke, stressing the points of good leadership, good fellowship and good fellowship.

Charles Fox, committeeman in the first district of the ward, said a check made by him showed that more than 100 men from the Fourth Ward are listed on the payrolls of the city and county. "This proves we are duly recognized in this section where so many are out of regular employment on jobs that have failed during these pressing times."

Alderman Leirey devoted considerable time to the duties of a representative of a ward in the common council and pointed out why Walter Lukaszewski is the logical man for the job. From his remarks the club gleaned why Alderman Leirey has been one of the most active business like men in the council and strengthened their convictions that he should be elected to the board of supervisors.

Another meeting of the Young Republican Club will be held in conjunction with the Republican Club on October 16.

Accord, Kerhonkson Farm Bureau Units

The committees of the Accord and Kerhonkson Farm Bureau communities met at the home of Benjamin E. Davis of Kerhonkson, for their annual meeting on Monday evening. A. P. Kaplan, chairman of the Accord group, presided. After carefully reviewing the county program, arrangements were made for a local meeting in November on Poultry House Ventilation, another on chicks in January and a meeting at which the improvement of dairy cattle, through breeding, will be discussed.

Both Mr. Davis and Mr. Kaplan were unanimously elected chairmen of the Kerhonkson and Accord committees respectively. Albert Myers was chosen to represent Kerhonkson on the county dairy committee and V. A. Barnhart will represent Accord. For poultrymen Floyd Eck, Franklin Kelder and A. P. Kaplan will make up the representation on the county committee.

Mae West Extortion Plot. Los Angeles, Oct. 8 (AP)—Authorities released four men—but held a fifth—after questioning them several hours today about an asserted $1,000 extortion plot aimed at blonde Mae West of the movies. The four, whose names never were released by police, explained satisfactorily their presence near a designated "pay-off" spot in the heart of Hollywood where George Janios, 38, was arrested last night. Janios, swarthy husky boy in the Fox studio restaurant, denied repeatedly he was involved in the plot, which Tom Carrell, investigator for the district attorney, said threatened death or disfigurement of the star of several "kay nineticks" films.

Prominent Kiwanians To Attend Kiwanis Ball

The executive officers of Kiwanis International are elected for various districts and divisions. The entire state of New York comprises one district and the governor of this district is Dr. George H. Caddick of Albany. Word has just been received from Dr. Caddick that he expects to be present at the entertainment and ball of the Kingston Kiwanis Club to be held on Friday evening of this week.

At the Kiwanis state convention held at Lake Placid during the middle of September, Lieutenant-Governors were elected for the succeeding year. The state is divided into 8 divisions and Kingston falls within Division 2. The retiring Lieutenant governor for division 2 is George C. Shaler of Poughkeepsie, the Lieutenant governor-elect is Richard Whitlock of Middletown. Both Mr. Shaler and Mr. Whitlock have been invited to attend the Kiwanis entertainment and ball on Friday evening and Mr. Whitlock has advised the committee that he will attend. At the present time the committee has not yet received word from Mr. Shaler as to whether or not he will be able to come to Kingston for the event.

BYPRODUCTS OF THE FIGHT

Quite a few records were broken on the occasion of the Baer-Louis fight. In addition to the biggest crowd that ever attended a sports event in New York city and the first million-dollar gate since 1929, there were other notable "tops." More money was spent in the metropolis in the 24 hours of that day than on any occasion since the Coolidge era, reports a writer in Editor & Publisher. More telegraph wires were used than in any other sports event in history. More words were sent from the ring than from any previous fight—300,000 words for the fans of the United States and 11,000 by cable to other lands. There were 1,000 reporters and working writers and nearly 200 photographers in the press boxes. Ticket scalping reached a new peak, with single tickets going for $125 to a few willing victims.

That isn't all. The occasion caused the highest usage of electric current for home radios and lights since 1932. Hotels, restaurants, transportation lines, and even the New York Milk Fund which shared in the receipts, all profited from the "complete, bona fide, thrilling sell-out." Reading such facts, one wonders whether the one-sided fight could possibly have been worth that much to spectators. Perhaps it wasn't the fight at all. The considerable hullabaloo really amounted to a shout of release from some of the anxieties of five depression years. Observers say it was the most successful sporting event on record because so many people wanted to spend money and be foolish.

THE UGLY TRUTH

Maybe something will really be accomplished in curbing reckless driving by the pictorial horror method of J. C. Furness, a young New York writer. His magazine article entitled "And Sudden Death" in Reader's Digest has had a powerful effect. Vast numbers of regrets have been sent on request to automobile clubs, schools, highway authorities, traffic court judges, municipal safety departments, and so on. Newspapers are beginning to adopt the same methods in reporting accidents. In some courts the judges have taken to reading selections from the article to careless drivers. For example:

What is needed is a vivid and sustained realization that every time you step on the throttle, death gets inside you, hopefully waiting for a chance.

That picture would have to include motion pictures and sound effects, too—the sopping, poisonous efforts of the injured to stand up; the sobbing, grinding noises; the steady, gutting growling of a human being with pain creeping up on him as the shock waves off.

It should portray the sick expression on the face of a man dragged with a stretcher, the twisted of his broken leg, the insane cramped effect of a child's body after his bones are crushed inward. Minor details should include the raw ends of bones protruding through flesh in compound fractures, and the dark, red, cooling surfaces where clothes and skin were flayed off at once.

Not very nice, is it? But wholesome. People wouldn't be so reckless if they could see these things beforehand.

MORE PORK

It is good news to lovers of breakfast bacon and pork sausage—a news for which comes on strong about this time of the year—that government restrictions on pork production are to be raised next year. Instead of 47 pounds apiece, two may have about 62 pounds apiece. It means a little more than 200 pounds per family. In the fall of 1935 the pork production was about 400 pounds per capita. Reassurance from this announcement is based not only on the desire for more pork but on the need of lower prices. The two are based on together. As U. S. Secretary, Director of the Consumers' Council, says, "Consumers interests demand that a program be followed which will result in increased hog production in the years 1936-7, with substantially lower retail prices."

There is no question that, between federal control and dry weather, hog limitation has been overdone. Either the public control or the weather control might have disposed of enough pork surplus to establish a healthy market, with prices that would have been fair alike to producers and consumers. Whatever degree of arbitrary limitation is provided for the future should leave more margin for unforeseeable weather effects. The same reasoning applies to other forms of agricultural control.

STRONG NEIGHBORLINESS

Speaking against a background of one of the two strongest navies in the world, almost at the moment when Mussolini was launching his predatory war in Africa and Europe was throbbing with excitement and fear, the President set forth the policy of this nation in unmistakable words.

Whatever happens abroad, he said, "the American people can have but one concern and speak but one sentiment. The United States of America shall and must remain unentangled and free. The people of the United States and the government of those people intend and expect to remain at peace with all the world." He held forth "the ideal of the American—I am a good neighbor."

This declaration may disappoint some foreign friends who have hoped for active American participation in their own perilous disputes. It reassures Americans and it should be reassuring, in the long run, to the rest of the world. It is a guarantee—always provided the American people continue sane and steadfast—that here, whatever may happen in the Old World, will be a stronghold of peace. In no other way can we serve mankind so well.

 FOODS IN PSORIASIS

One of the most persistent and distressing skin ailments which afflicts mankind is psoriasis in which there are dry flat patches of various sizes covered with white, silver-gray, or asbestos-like scales. There is no exudation (liquid formation) and consequently no crusts. On removing the scales there is a smooth shining red surface dotted here and there with deep red spots. The red spots bleed easily if touched.

The cause of psoriasis is still unknown although the search has ever been diligent.

"There is no disorder so capricious or uncertain in its response to treatment as psoriasis. Remedies that at one time are effective are valueless at another in the same person."

The treatment outlined at the Cook County Hospital, Chicago, takes into consideration the diet first, the cutting down of fat foods being the chief method.

The low fat diet is as follows: Forbidden Foods—All greasy soups, massage, delicatessen except frankfurters made of lean meat, all fat meats such as pork, mutton, fat chicken, duck, goose, oil, herring, salmon, carp and other "rich" fish, rice and egg yolk; all cheeses except cottage (cream) cheese; all fats (bacon, butter, fat, palm, margarine, oil, cream, butter, whole milk, buttermilk); meat may be roasted with a little butter but the fat must be removed from the gravy by letting it get cold; cakes, cookies, whipped cream, butter cookies.

Foods Allowed—Lean soups (fat removed after letting it get cold); white of egg; lean beef (roast or boiled); lean veal, lean venison, (rabbit, deer and the like); lean ham; lean fowl (quail, chicken, partridge); lean fish (pike, cod, pickerel and others); sugar, malt, honey, raspberry juice and other fruit and berry juices; all kinds of fruit and berries, raw or preserved; flour, rice, potatoes, macaroni, noodles; all kinds of vegetables prepared without butter or fat; bread, white or rye bread, zwieback, toast, rolls; skim milk.

The drug treatment is the same as it apparently has always been, that is arsenic internally and ammoniated mercury in an ointment externally. Treatment by ultra violet rays has been found helpful in the acute or recent cases. The X-ray has given brilliant results in cases of long standing, but is not considered good treatment in recent cases.

I have spoken before of the fat free diet treatment of psoriasis, but believe the above lists of foods, forbidden and allowed, should be very useful in curbing and preventing attacks. It must be taken for months before real results are noticed.

HIGH COURAGE

by Joanne Bowman.

SYNOPSIS: Anne Farnsworth feels the mystery behind her father's sudden trip to the Astoria Hotel, and she is further disturbed when her father, Rob Farnsworth, suddenly appears and objects to her taking to the Astoria Hotel and mother and sister Rob thanked John Newman, her rescuer.

Chapter Four

HINT FROM MOTHER

"No, mother, he didn't," admitted Anne. "He insisted Newman merely made a gesture to put Dad under obligation to him. What do you think?"

"I could be arrested for what I think... of Rob," Mrs. Farnsworth confessed, laughing. "I don't believe John Newman had time to identify our best or you. He saw the need for action and acted; I understand he's like that."

"Well, Rob was jealous, mother," Anne hastened to defend her fiancé. "He seemed to object to Newman's putting his arms about me. I suppose I should be proud that he thinks that much of me, shouldn't I?"

"That's for you to decide," Mrs. Farnsworth evaded. "Well... I suppose we should dress for dinner."

"Mother, you're looking forward to this family dinner about as much as I am," accused Anne. Rob says the Fairies are going to be there."

"They would be," murmured the woman, with her whimsical laugh. "There are times when I rejoice that my relatives are as distant in kin as they are in geography. As much as I love Luke, the two his brother and sister married are all the in-laws I can stand in one lifetime. Not that I'd let him know."

"Lee is still his funny little brother and Mabel, in spite of her birth, a little sister to be cared for."

"I wonder why Rob has never taken me to see his mother and father," Anne mused. "They don't live so far away; live on a farm in the south end part of the State, he says. I'd like to know them; maybe I'd understand him better."

"Daughter," Mrs. Farnsworth arose and came over to Anne, "what do you mean by that? Do you feel you don't know Rob well enough to go on with your marriage?"

It seemed to Anne that her mother's voice was tinged with hope, "No, not that," she hastened to say. "Only I believe that, knowing a person's parents and child hood, you can tell better how they will react to certain trials. I never know how Rob will act in a crisis, like today, for instance."

"Anne," Mrs. Farnsworth leaned over her daughter, dark eyes troubled. "Why not postpone your marriage to Rob until next winter? Will you do that, dear?"

ANNE studied her mother in consternation. Fat of her wedding with the bridemaids chosen, the new home they would occupy nearly completed?

"Mother, why do you ask?" "Oh," Mrs. Farnsworth's mood seemed to change. "Just the desire of a silly old hen with a lone duckling," she explained. "I do want you to be as happy as Dad and I have been, and if you feel any uncertainty at all, I want you to know we wouldn't mind making plausible excuses for you."

Anne laughed in sheer relief. "Don't worry, I'm not uncertain." "Then we'd better dress. I had Yvonne pack that new coral velvet. Charlotte is picked if we don't dress for her dinner and I'm sure if we do, so we might as well give her something to be jealous about."

Anne came flushed and rosy from her bath to find Mrs. Farnsworth had gone to the other room. Methodically the girl brushed her long, golden brown hair, plaited it, then after slipping into the coral velvet, bowed the bride about her head.

She studied her image in the mirror, impersonally. In spite of what her mother had said, she wasn't pretty. Her eyes were a nice rich brown, but they were set too far apart and her brows were too black for such pale brown hair.

Fortunately she had perfect teeth for her mouth was generously proportioned. She leaned forward, surveyed the creamy tone of her skin. It wouldn't be long before it was rosy tan, two or three days in the open... Newman was browned, and his eyes were sea blue, so called blue.

A blast of wind struck the building and rattled the windows, then rattled off around the eaves. The storm was coming in, laying the peace with long strokes of rain.

Let's Farnsworth seemed to be looking with a sudden decision, however.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Oct. 7.—John Ingalls and Miss Ann Ingalls of Brooklyn spent the week-end at the family summer home here.

Homer Markle, Jr., is visiting his sister, Mrs. Edwin Swenson, and family, in Locust Valley, L. I.

Religious services were held in the Olive-Hurley Baptist Church on Sunday. There was no preaching in the absence of the pastor, Elder Arnold Bellows, of Ashokan, who was officiating at one of his other charges up-state.

R. Bennett and family, who have occupied the Burrows farm house on the Ashokan mountain road for the past several years, returned last month to their former home in New Jersey.

Irving Weeks spent Sunday at his home in the west end. Young Weeks and his brother, Fred, Jr., are employed at Lake Mohonk mountain house, which closes its season October 21.

Mrs. Inez Dumont is spending three weeks at her cottage on the North Boulevard. Mrs. Dumont, until recently a resident of Asbury Park, N. J., will henceforth make her home in Philadelphia with her daughter, Mrs. Inez Corley.

A second addition has been made to the mess hall at Camp 8-53, CCC. State foresters now stationed at the big camp are the following: Stasak, Young, Foster, Krum, Lake, McCagg, Murphy, Bentley, Carpenter, Ford and Gilbert. Of these officials, several are married men residing with their families at Boiceville or in nearby villages. Forester Stasak for the past year has occupied the Burton Christians house here.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger H. Loughran and daughter, Alberta, of Hurley, called on friends in Shokan on Sunday afternoon.

Week-end visitors to this section included Reeves Biggers, who was at the summer residence of relatives in the Chase, bungalow colony on Winesham mountain. Young Biggers is a student of architecture at Yale University.

The Rev. August Pfau and family returned last week from their annual vacation. The Rev. Mr. Pfau conducted communion services in the Shokan Reformed Church on Sunday morning.

October 8, 1894, Mrs. Theodore Wanda and daughters, Evelyn, Beatie and Amy, left Shokan to take up their residence in Norwich. Mrs. Wanda, now deceased, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt C. Davis.

Captain Herbert S. Kameler, former commanding officer at the local CCC camp, is now stationed at New Hampton where he commands Co. 2200-CCC-VC (Veterans Contingent). The war veterans, many of whom are Brooklyn men, are working on the Walkill river project.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nodine and son have removed from their temporary home in the village center to the south reservoir boulevard near West Hurley.

The October meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church took place last Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Beatie Davis in Ashokan. Fourteen members and two visitors were present at the meeting which was opened by the singing of the hymn, "Jesus is all the World to Me."

Mrs. Nell Windrum presided at the piano. Mrs. Daniel Sampson, president, then read from the Scripture, 1 John, 3. Reading of the minutes was by Mrs. Charles Giles, secretary, and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Fred Aditt.

The ladies voted to hold a chicken supper in the church hall on Wednesday, October 23. Committees for the supper were appointed as follows: Kitchen, Mrs. Frank Barringer; dining room, Mrs. Clyde Winchester; tickets, Mrs. Fred Aditt. Miss Lizzie Giles was named to take charge of the fancy work table at which articles left over from the society's annual fair, will be offered for sale on the night of the supper.

Each member was asked to contribute a pound of homemade candy. Mrs. Claude Rose was welcomed as a new member of the aid. The ladies accepted an invitation from Mrs. Fred Herschenroder to hold their November meeting at the Herschenroder home on the mountain road. The business session then was closed with the hymn, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," followed by the benediction. Refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, pickle cake, ice cream, candy, coffee and tea, were served by Mrs. Davis.

The work of hardening the Touché Mountain road, a county project, is practically completed to Buig's Corners. Local men also will report today for employment on a town road improvement job near the Edward C. Bostock place where a considerable amount of fill work is to be done.

Leonard DuBois, Republican nominee for supervisor of Ulster, is a resident of the First election district. He is also Homer Markle, Sr., who was named for the supervisorship. Mr. DuBois for a number of years has conducted a garage and sales agency at Ashokan, while Mr. Markle for the past two years has been a member of the town board of assessors.

Miss Kate Walton, for many years a Kingston school teacher, writes to Shokan relatives from Langley Mills, Nott, England, that she expects to return to Kingston next month. Miss Walton, who has been abroad for the past two years, plans to spend the week-end at their bungalow opposite the Shokan school house.

Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt Osborn of Athens and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Winchell of Kingston attended Baptist services here Sunday.

Laurie Thell, Republican nominee for justice of the peace, and school trustee of District No. 4, for the past several years, has a fine flock of 100 young ducks which he proposes to carry through the winter as breeding stock. Mr. Thell's ducks dispose themselves in their pond near the state road at all hours of the night, their concerted quacking sometimes causing the owner to suspect the presence of poultry in the poultry yard. He took upon investigation, however, that the racket is merely a part of the wintertime merry-making at the duck pond.

Lawrence Corley, a former Shokan boy, was a caller here Sunday. He and his sister, Miss Ann Corley, are now residing in Philadelphia, where Miss Corley has secured a position as nurse in one of the large hospitals.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Burdett will hold the annual card party for the benefit of "Union Chapter 10, E. E." on the evening of October 14, at the Shokan school house.

Card games, bridge, dominoes, etc., also will be played. Refreshments served and everybody welcome.

A killing frost Friday night put a crimp even in the hardy plants and effectively put an end to further blooming of those Governor plants which had been promised by a covering. The end of the current year will see much of the fall farm work accomplished. Farmers are now working apples, distilling late potatoes and husking corn as well as freshman party plans as presented by the committee. Howard Nickerson and Anthony Berinato. The club is expected to cooperate with the Senior Hi-Y chapters in making the project a success.

25th Ward Democrats
 The regular meeting of the 25th Ward Democratic Club will be held this evening at 8:15 at the rooms on E. Strand and Broadway street. All members are requested to be present as business of importance will be acted upon.

The coffee produced in Coda's Room is virtually all sold in London for special blends.

Card of Thanks
 Mrs. Arthur Carter and family wish to thank their friends, relatives and neighbors who assisted during the sickness and at the time of the death of Mr. Jane Carter, also for the floral tributes.—Advertisement.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Projects rather than patronage—That in brief describes the change in routine which members of congress and politicians in general have undergone to a large extent since the advent of the "new deal" and billions in appropriations for public works.

Time was when a senator or representative regarded patronage as his principal tool in mending political fences. It still is regarded as a most useful implement, one that is given the most careful attention, but projects probably has exceeded it from the standpoint of usefulness for the time being.

Approval by PWA of a dam across Potomac River or the erection of a municipal center at Squeedunk is of tremendous importance politically. Those charged with the allocation of public works projects make every effort to discourage politics. Despite this fact, the folks back home continue to exert all the pressure they can on their representatives in congress.

They, in turn, must at least make a show of doing something.

The 'Grind' Has Started
 THE micrographs at headquarters of the two major parties in the capital have begun to turn at a speed which steadily will gain in acceleration during the months ahead, grinding out material for the '36 campaign.

The Democrats have just released in one blast a series of eight different pamphlets ranging in size from one page to 22. They are intended for use this fall and winter of party supporters who have opportunity to make speeches.

These are only storm warnings indicative of the hurricane to follow.

Long's Senate Jobs Sought
 HUEY P. LONG hadn't been dead on capital hill as to who would get the late "kingfisher's" senate committee assignments.

Long spurred assignments to committees in the early part of his senate career, but finally relented and accepted places on four. Two of them were important ones.

He arose to be the fourth ranking Democrat on the judiciary committee and eighth in rank on the committee on interstate commerce. He held places on two other relatively unimportant ones—inter-oceanic canals and public buildings and grounds.

Several of the "freshmen" senators would like an assignment either to judiciary or interstate commerce.

Republican Party Candidates Named
 The Republican party has named the following candidates for election this fall:

Member of Assembly—J. Edward Conway.
 Sheriff—Abram F. Molyneux.
 Coroner—Howard B. Humiston.
 Mayor—Conrad J. Heiselman.
 Alderman—at-large—John J. Schwenk.

First ward—Supervisor, Harry P. Van Wagenen; alderman, Paul A. Zucca.
 Second ward—Supervisor, Jay W. Hiffenbary; alderman, Jacob H. Tremper, Jr.

Third ward—Supervisor, Samuel Williams; alderman, Clarence R. Robertson.
 Fourth ward—Supervisor, Frank J. Leirey; alderman, Walter Lukasewski.

Fifth ward—Supervisor, Edwin W. Ashby; alderman, James R. Murphy.
 Sixth ward—Supervisor, John J. Keller; alderman, Charles Thomas.
 Seventh ward—Supervisor, Alexander Ostrander; alderman, Albert Vogt.

Eighth ward—Supervisor, Henry F. Keich; alderman, Samuel H. Peyer.
 Ninth ward—Supervisor, Cornelius J. Heitzman; alderman, James E. Connelly.

Tenth ward—Supervisor, Walter T. Elston; alderman, Fred L. Renn.
 Eleventh ward—Supervisor, Robert Phinney; alderman, Eugene Cornwell.

Twelfth ward—Supervisor, Edward M. Stambrough; alderman, John C. Garon.
 Thirteenth ward—Supervisor, Joseph Feldman.

THIRTEEN AND TEN YEARS AGO
 Oct. 8, 1915—The Old Guard of Ulster County was formally launched with a large charter membership at a meeting held at the state armory here.

Jacob F. Freer died at Binghamton.
 Thomas A. Irwin, a former resident, died in Brooklyn.

Oct. 8, 1925—The Rev. Thomas F. Keane, assistant pastor at St. Mary's Church, transferred to Church of St. Rose of Lima in New York. The Rev. Michael McGuire, assistant pastor of St. Peter's Church in Rosendale, transferred to Church of St. Joachim at Beacon.

William F. Dederick, well known Wall street druggist, died of a fractured skull sustained in a fall. He was 67 years old.
 Samuel M. Waite appointed member of city zoning board.

Irvin W. Satterlee of Elmendorf street died.
 Mrs. Nolle B. Van Wagner died at Willow.

Danger

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

In spite of ordinances against placing things on the outside sills of windows, people continue to risk the lives of pedestrians with milk bottles and flower pots. Growing plants are gay and pretty in summer, and it saves ice to put the milk out in the winter months, but unless flower pots and milk bottles can be guaranteed not to topple over and cause severe injury to those below.

The danger is greatest in districts where children play on the sidewalks or in the courts and yards of apartment houses.

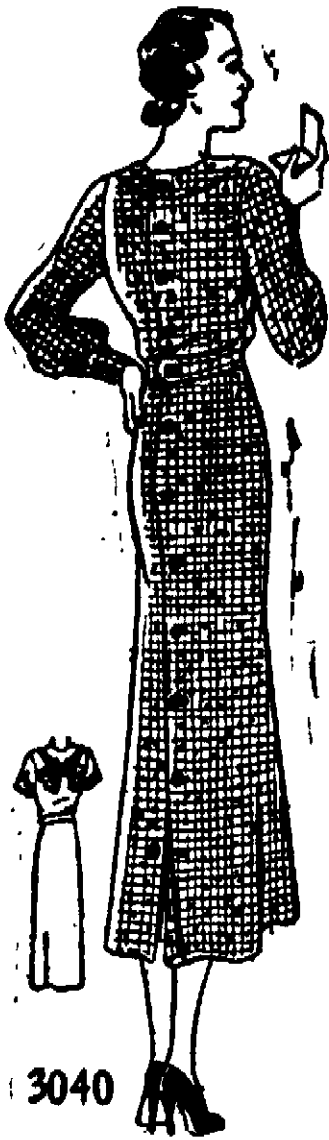

It is impossible always to guard against carelessness, and the amount of ice that is saved by keeping the children's milk on the window sill cannot be worth as much as the safety of the children. If people, in spite of ordinances and common sense precautions insist on the dangerous practice they could, with very little expense and trouble, make a rack attached to the wooden window frame which would keep bottles and any other objects from falling.

The neighbors should insist on this for they and their children are all concerned in the matter. There is no need to cause bad feeling by complaining. The janitor or superintendent can act as go-between, and if he objects, the owner of the house or even the police can be called in.

The danger is real and great enough to justify extreme measures. Most people do not think ahead far enough. They either do not see

variety makes
'hat hunting'
a joy.

Diana Mearns

Millinery designers this season have bequeathed a larger than usual variety of styles to choose from, making the "hat hunting" task a joy. There are brims for those who wish them, youthful halo hats that flatter the young face, berets and tri-corners in many versions and toques for dressier wear. So march forth for your new winter bonnet with less fear in your hearts—there is a hat for every head this season. The hat at right above, was designed for a young matron, smart, chic and yet with a certain amount of dignity in its folds. Made of black felt it shows a forward movement produced by the eucalyptus starting around and then abruptly stopping to go up and fold over at the front crown a gold mesh ornament holds this brim manipulation in place.

Below, at left, the hat or black felt shows a high back crown interest. The rolled brim ends in a point at back with a grosgrain bow and a short veil trickles over the brim at front.

A LOVELY SKIN IS CLEAR AND UNBLEMISHED

What a joy it is to have a clear, healthy, unblemished skin! For, of course, that's what men mean when they say admiringly, "What a gorgeous complexion!"

But—alas—poor don't always function properly. We get careless about diet... let down on exercise... become slumped about cleaning our faces. Then, if the skin is inclined to be oily, we have to fight blackheads.

Of course the sensible thing to do about blackheads is to prevent them. Never forget to remove cosmetics at night. Watch your diet—any digestive upset will soon be reflected in your skin.

Check up on Health

If you are troubled with blackheads, check up on your health. If necessary, consult a doctor. Wash your face with soap and really warm water each night. Not just a "lick and a promise." Give it a good scrubbing. You might even (if your skin isn't too sensitive) use a complexion brush occasionally—guided you keep the brush thoroughly clean. For it takes friction and heat—aided and abetted by diet—to root blackheads. Then once or twice a week, try this special blackhead removing treatment. First wash and scrub your hands. Cleanse your face—with cream, then with soap and warm water, so that the skin is soft and relaxed—and hold a piece of gauze pressed out of hot water to the spot affected. Or use a bran bag dipped in hot water, and hold that against the skin. Then with a blackhead extractor (a tiny ring of metal on a handle) or your finger tips covered with gauze, gently press out the hardened secretions. Finish treatment by applying alcohol to the spot. If a blackhead is stubborn and does not come out with gentle pressure, leave it for another treatment.

TIPS ON CONTRACT

By TOM O'NEIL

Squeeze Protection

When the declarer is running out a long string of one suit for the obvious purpose of making a low card a winner by forcing discards, it behooves the defending partners to count carefully, the one protecting the other if possible. Especially is this the case when one defender has to discard honors in a side suit. Take the following hand:

NORTH
♥ A Q 2
♦ Q J 10 5
♣ A Q 7 4
WEST
♠ A J 3 2
♥ 9 6 5
♦ J 10 8 5
♣ J 10 8 5
EAST
♠ K J 10 4
♥ K 8
♦ K 6 3
♣ 4 5 4
♠ 7 5
♥ 7 6 4 3 2

South was the declarer in a contract for five diamonds, the bidding having gone: North one club, East one diamond, South two diamonds, North three diamonds, East four diamonds, South five diamonds, West six diamonds.

West led the ace and a low spade, which was won South with the king. The last spade from the South hand was trumped North, and a diamond was led.

In with the trump ace, West led a low heart through North's ace-queen. The trick was taken with the ace.

The declarer, Mrs. Paul Zontlein, playing in a rubber game at the Algonquin Club, New York, was doubtful of the success of either the heart finesse or the club finesse, since West had bid spades only once and already had shown up with two aces. If he held one or two kings besides, he probably would have bid more. She assumed that the heart and club kings lay East and the only possibility of taking the remaining tricks was by a squeeze, real or otherwise.

With that end in view she played out the rest of the diamonds. The defenders had to make six discards each.

West knew that he had the only spades left, so he discarded the two of them on the first two of the six diamonds. Then he let go his two hearts. East shed two low clubs and then his remaining four hearts.

For the eleventh trick the declarer produced the seven of hearts from her hand. The last and game going trick was taken with the club ace.

West's alibi was that he feared South might be trying to promote low clubs to the winning rank. Yet it would have been easy to determine that such was not the case.

Prior to the start of the string of diamonds the play had accounted for three spades, one heart and seven diamonds in South's hand. If the two remaining cards were the king and one club, nothing that the defense could do would set the contract. Those two cards were obviously not both hearts, because the declarer would have taken the ace of clubs when in the North hand. If the two cards were both low clubs, West would have to rely on East to prevent the club queen from making.

The most likely thing was that South would have one low heart and one low club left after the diamond string was run out, especially since any squeeze play needed an entry to the North hand.

Had West held for his last two cards the nine of hearts and any other card he chose, the declarer would have had to make a futile effort on the twelfth trick either to finesse against the club king or to drop it.

Mrs. Stoll Is Recalled to Stand

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Alice Speed Stoddard was recalled to the witness stand in federal court here today for defense cross-examination of her testimony that Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., named his wife and his father as confederates in Mrs. Stoll's kidnapping for $50,000 ransom one year ago.

In direct testimony as the government's star witness against Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., and Mrs. Frances Robinson, Mrs. Stoll related that her abductor, whom she named as Robinson, Jr., slugged her twice with an iron pipe so that her head dripped blood for 24 hours, held her prisoner for six days, and released her after Mrs. Robinson delivered the ransom to an Indianapolis apartment.

Mrs. Robinson, 24-year-old attractive brunette, and the elder Robinson are charged jointly with young Robinson, a fugitive, in the kidnapping. If convicted, they may be sentenced to death, providing the jury of middle aged men hearing the case in Judge Elwood Hamilton's court so recommends.

Mrs. Stoll, wealthy young society matron, said a stranger, "I never saw him before he came into my room," gained entrance to her suburban home the afternoon of October 10, 1934, by posing as a telephone repair man, terrorized her maid, Mrs. Ann Woollet, and came into her bedroom, where she was ill.

He told me he was going to kidnap me, Mrs. Stoll testified. "He held a gun right in my face. I tried to think of arguments because I knew it would not do me any good to yell. . . . The man laid his gun on the bed and tied my wrists."

"I made a grab for the gun and he hit me on the head with a pipe. It raised quite a bump. . . . I remembered that my own gun was in my bedroom and I tried to get to it and he hit me again. He cut my head. It bled for 24 hours."

The 14-inch long pipe, about two inches thick, bloodstained bed clothing and negligee went into evidence.

Mrs. Stoll identified a photograph of Robinson, Jr., as that of her abductor.

Mrs. Stoll said her imprisonment ended the following Tuesday after Mrs. Robinson arrived, was greeted as "Honey," threw the ransom bundle on the bed, and urged her husband to "get out of here as fast as you can."

Two Hurt in Car Crash at Milton

Gedney Mackey, 85, a prominent fruit grower of Milton, suffered a fractured pelvis bone in an auto crash Saturday evening on Milton Turnpike near his home. It was revealed by an X-ray in Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, Sunday morning.

Mrs. Mackey, 57, who was in the car with her husband, is also in the hospital under treatment for head and body injuries. No bones are broken. Mrs. Gedney Mackey, Jr., also in the car, escaped with slight injuries and is being treated in her home.

The Mackey car figured in a collision with the machine of John Beaver of Esopus opposite Young's Garage as the Mackeys were returning to their home. The Beaver machine was traveling in the opposite direction.

Beaver was unhurt, but his wife, riding in the car with him, suffered an injury to her knee. Her mother, Mrs. Laura Burger, sustained a sprained ankle. They did not require hospital treatment and were taken to their home by Mrs. Edward Young.

At the hospital Mr. Mackey's condition was reported as good on Sunday. Mrs. Mackey complained of severe pain in her head. Sergeant Lockheart of the Highland State Police investigated the accident.

WATER SITUATION IN HIGHLAND DECLARED SERIOUS

Highland, Oct. 8.—The water situation in Highland is still tense and Philip T. Schantz was notified Friday that the water in the pond of Madame Pelittier was too low to allow any more to be used. Mr. Schantz then took steps to get a pump from New Jersey and expected by Sunday to have it set in the outlet of Pratt's pond in the rear of the Jacob Schuble house.

The fire commissioners took extra precautions in case of fire, to have a man, Bertram Dimsey, and at night, Alvin Siller, at the fire house in case of an alarm to run the small truck right out. There is water kept in one of the reservoirs for such an event. There have been no rains of any value since April and the situation is serious.

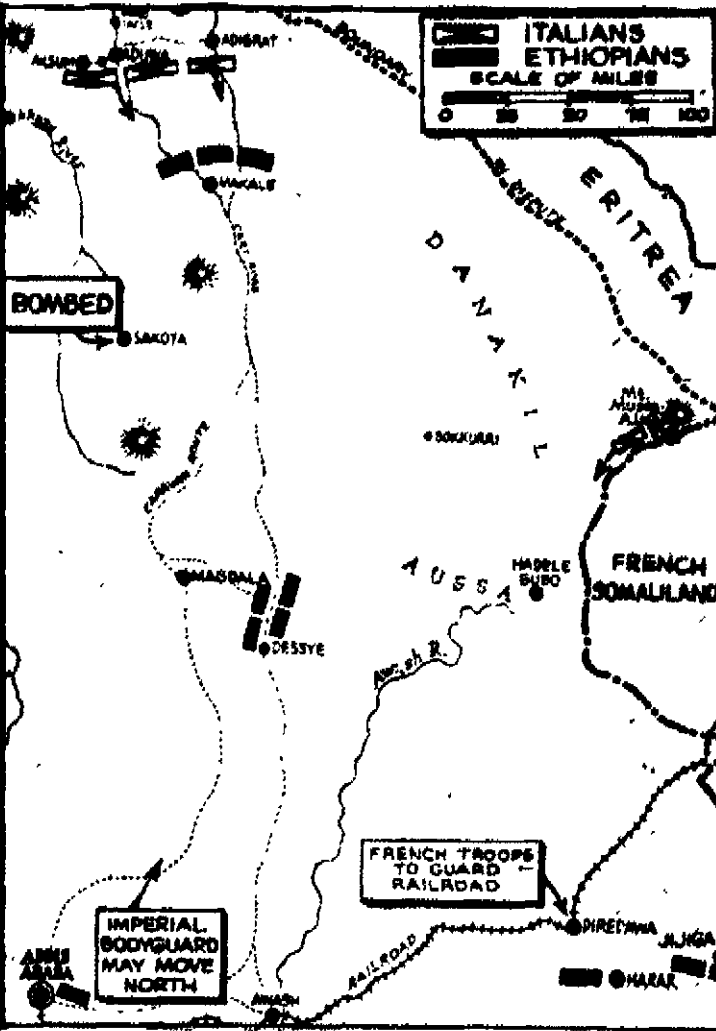

GARDENER WOMAN RAINY INJURED IN FALL FROM CAR

Highland, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Frank Wilkoff suffered a sudden illness early Saturday morning and her daughter, Mrs. S. D. Parham of Highland, was sent for. Mrs. D. Parham's daughter was driving the car and Mrs. Wilkoff, sitting in the rear seat, was not fastened, tried to close it when the car hit a hole and fell from the car. The car was traveling about forty miles an hour and Mrs. Wilkoff was badly injured, although she did not strike her head.

HAILE SELASSIE MAY TAKE FIELD

Ethiopian dispatches indicate that Emperor Haile Selassie, accompanied by his imperial guard, would personally take the field to direct activities against the Italians. This map shows the northern campaign territory in relation to the emperor's reported proposal to go to Desays, where the main Ethiopian army is said to be concentrated. A strong detachment also was reported at Makale, expecting an attack from Italians at Adowa and Adigrat. Other Ethiopians were at Harar and Jijiga in expectation of an attack from the south. Girds Nation Against Sanctions By League

Mussolini had made peace proposals to Emperor Haile Selassie, the spokesman said.

"The government has not received such, and considers that any overtures must be made through the League, which is handling the entire situation."

Commenting on repeated reports of fighting to the north, the Ethiopian general headquarters said Ray Seyoum, governor of the East Tigre Province, had received strict instructions to keep his forces behind the 20-mile neutral zone, allowing none but outposts to keep contact with the Italians.

This order, coupled with extremely lenient treatment of Italian officials here, was believed generally to indicate that the emperor still wished to find a peaceful solution, especially as Mussolini had realized his objective of occupying Adowa and avenging the previous Italian disaster there.

A government official warmly denied that Gen. Eric Vergin, the Swedish military adviser to the emperor, has gone abroad on a secret mission.

He explained that when General Vergin left Addis Ababa he was in a critical condition as the result of seven heart attacks within a month. Four physicians insisted that he must leave this high altitude if he wished to survive.

Use of Gas Reported

London, Oct. 8 (AP)—An unconfirmed report that the Italians had used gas for the first time yesterday was relayed to London today by the Reuters (British) correspondent at Addis Ababa.

He said this report told of the use of gas in operations around Adowa. The same correspondent said Italian forces captured the Ethiopian Holy City of Aksum, virtually completing the first stage of their campaign in the north.

With the fall of the Holy City, once capital of an Ethiopian kingdom, the Reuters correspondent said, the Fascist columns established a line about 70 miles long on the northern front, extending from Adigrat to Aksum by way of Adowa. Aksum is a town of many ruins with sentimental associations for the Ethiopians. It contains numbers of monoliths apparently connected with an ancient form of semitic sun worship.

The Exchange Telegraph correspondent with the Italian forces on the northern front reported Italian troops had learned quickly how easy it was for warriors of Ethiopia's desolate Danakil district, used to the mountain fastnesses, to render themselves invisible.

A despatch from the correspondent said Italian advance guards several times had found themselves engulfed by fire from the front, from rifles undiscernible to the naked eye. While consolidating their positions at Adowa, the Exchange Telegraph correspondent said, Italian commanders discussed their experiences and evolved tactics for future use when and if circumstances should arise.

For the first part of the advance, armored cars and tanks were used extensively to support the columns of troops, but the correspondent said the high command was well aware that roadways could not be made with sufficient speed to enable the cars and tanks to traverse stretches of country where surfaceted mules could be the sole means of transport.

Although these difficulties were recognized, the correspondent reported that confidence was felt that airplanes, light artillery and machine guns would provide a devastating answer to the tactics of the Ethiopian defenders.

An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Addis Ababa said northern Ethiopian chieftains were moving with large forces towards Italy's colony of Eritrea, and that one of them had penetrated 60 miles inside of the border with 15,000 men.

An Exchange Telegraph despatch from the Italian headquarters in Eritrea, however, denied that any Ethiopians had entered the colony.

Casualties Reported

Rome, Oct. 8 (AP)—Italian casualties were described as very few, but those of Ethiopians as heavy in an official communique today concerning the war thus far in East Africa.

There was no mention of a resumption of an advance into Ethiopia by the Fascist forces on the sixth day of open hostilities. The communique, instead, described digging-in operations and reported that "hundreds of prisoners and much war materials" were captured in recent days.

An attempted attack by Ethiopians on Om-Ager was reported to have been repulsed by native troops around Teneacet.

The morale of the Italian troops was said to be excellent, and road building, protective measures and communications were asserted to have made the Italian position extremely strong.

The communique said, "During the day of October 7, the troops proceeded to consolidate their positions occupied beyond Adowa and to organize lines of communications and supplies."

"Numerous detachments of engineers, commanding units, laborers, have continued to work behind the lines so that motorized columns can reach the front lines with regularity."

"An attempted attack on Om-Ager was repulsed by Italian native troops around Teneacet."

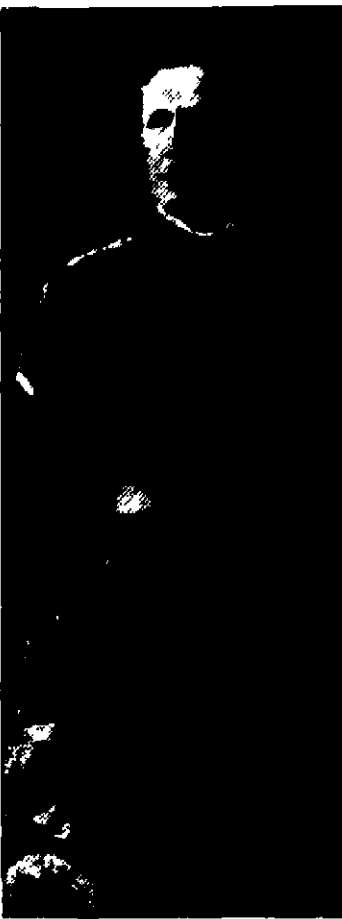

"Populations in the occupied zones have resumed their normal life under the Italian tri-color symbol of civilization."

"In operations of the last few days, hundreds of prisoners and much war material were captured."

French "Battered"

Paris, Oct. 8 (AP)—Premier Pierre Laval was officially described today as anxiously seeking to keep French soldiers from "going the whole way" in sanctions against Italy.

Italian Commander

ters found themselves "battered" at the idea that they would be bound to support Great Britain. If that country, in the event of carrying out possible League of Nations orders for military sanctions against Italy were attacked.

"We are counting on England's prudence," one official said. The French also took what comfort they could in Great Britain's apparent intention to avoid military sanctions and in what they said is Germany's "consentment" at a Franco-British understanding.

It was announced that Laval will represent France on the league's coordination committee in which representatives of the council and assembly will consider sanctions against Italy for its measures in Ethiopia. The premier, it was said, intended to exert all possible pressure to keep the measures mild.

France looked to the league to vindicate its existence by showing the ability to reach a reasonable settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

Informed quarters saw in the league's council condemnation of Italy as an aggressor nation an enhancement of the international body's prestige but admitted the league's path was hedged with certain perils. The French government awaited a reply from the British foreign secretary to the assurance France would give assistance to England to enforce sanctions if such aid would be returned by the British. The French assurance, which fixed the conditions for assistance if the British fleet in the Mediterranean is attacked during the controversy between Italy and Ethiopia, was delivered yesterday.

The American Red Cross appeals to the people of the United States once a year to support its activities, both local and national, through individual memberships. This appeal is made in the annual roll call. The period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day has been set aside every year since 1929 for this appeal, and this time is generally recognized everywhere as a Red Cross Week. Every individual in his or her respective community is asked to share in the activities of this noble organization.

The Ulster County Chapter is completing plans for the drive this year, and it is hoped that the membership may be greatly increased. Mrs. Frederic Holcomb will act as chairman of the drive and Mrs. Myron Taylor will serve as public chairman.

The Governor Of Oklahoma

Once one of the nation's wealthiest oil executives, Governor E. W. Marland of Oklahoma saw his personal fortune dwindle. . . . He blamed the "wolves of Wall street" for forcing a merger of his Marland Oil Company with the Continental Oil Company. . . . Turning to politics for the first time in 1931, this short stocky native of Pennsylvania was elected Democratic congressman from a normally Republican district. . . . He rode high on the "New Deal" tide. . . . On election as governor, he launched a program of state spending that drew heavy opposition from the Legislature. . . . But he found ready support in Washington for proposals with a federal tie-up. . . . After his first wife died in 1926, Marland married her niece whom he had previously adopted as his daughter. HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Only one major studio has made a football picture this year, and the coach in that one was J. Farrell MacDonald. If more football pictures had been made, Farrell would have been sought for the coach's role in each of them. He would not have played them. In "Fighting Youth," with Charlie Farrell as his gridiron hero, MacDonald naturally gravitated into the role of coach and repeated in "Touchdown" and "70,000 Wilkes."

Too Good

"These three were in one year," he said the other day, "and I could have done more football coaches, but I turned them down. There aren't as many football coaches in pictures as there are butlers," he went on, by way of explanation. But that needed elaboration:

"I know a fine actor," he said, "who once, long ago, played a butler's part in a silent picture. He was so good at it that all the directors went after him to play their butlers, and after a while it got so that they all forgot he could do anything else. Today he still plays butlers—only now he gets $7.50 a day instead of an acting salary. He is just as fine an actor, too, as he was that un-

Broadway: "Steamboat Round the Bend." One of the greatest comedies of his day smiles and laughs through his last motion picture, a picture measured to fit his many talents perfectly, and Will Rogers, now a memory, lives for his brief hour again in the flickering brightness of the camera eye. To see this picture is to even more regret his passing for Mr. Rogers was just beginning to become an actor of great ability and this story of the Mississippi and the men who got their living as boatmen on the river is charming, mirthful and romantic entertainment. Mr. Rogers has his finest screen role as a medicine show doctor with a yen to be a steamboat captain. There is atmosphere, excitement and romance to be found in the play for the show doctor's nephew falls in love with a girl and commits murder because of her. An array of talent is to be found in the supporting group of players. They include Anne Shirley, John McGuire, Stephen Fichtel, Irvin S. Cobb, and Eugene Pallette. Put this one on the don't miss list.

Orpheum: "Keeper of the Bees." Neil Hamilton, Betty Furness, Hobart Bosworth and Edith Fellows are the main dramatists to be seen in this Gene Stratton Porter story of an ex-soldier who finds new life and a new lease on happiness as maestro of the bee hives. It follows the book closely and the show should appeal to young and old alike. Selected short subjects complete the program.

Kingston: "After the Dance" and "Welcome Home." Injustice and treachery stalk grimly through the first feature at the Kingston with Nancy Carroll and the singing George Murphy catching most of the fireworks. The story tells of an ex-convict who becomes famous as a masked singer but who has the very devil of a time keeping his identity unknown. Love, however, solves the problem in the closing stanza of the film. "Welcome Home" is a plot of fun as it tells how three city slickers go to a small town for the express purpose of fishing for human suckers only to be taken in themselves. Raymond Walburn, Arline Judge and James Dunn are featured. Kingston: Same.

Tomorrow

Broadway: "The 39 Steps." Here's an evening of the grandest entertainment one could wish for, a melodramatic treat that fairly glitters with excitement, intrigue and danger. Robert Donat, the handsome hero of "Monte Cristo," is this time falsely accused of murder, and in order to prove his innocence, it becomes necessary for him to track down and capture one of the biggest bands of crooks in the business. And strangely enough, a girl he detests and who despises him, becomes his partner in the exciting quest. Rapid action, moments of rare humor, treachery and fear are all skillfully woven into this extraordinary picture and to see it is to live in the grand manner as the bewildered hero untangles the web about his being. Subtle camera work plus brilliant dialogue and acting combine to make this talkie a standout attraction, one of the most lively dramas of the year. The cast offers Madeleine Carroll, Alfred Hitchcock, Geoffrey Tearle, and Peggy Ashcroft, all of the English stage. The picture was produced in Britain and under the G. B. Banner. A don't miss thriller.

Orpheum: "Hold 'Em Yule" and "Behind Green Lights." The first feature at the Orpheum is a mixture of humor and collegiate atmosphere. Roughly, the show tells of a certain young lady, used to having her own way, who is placed under the care of four thugs. The action is gay and there is a romantic little story as a side issue.

Kingston: "After the Dance" and "Welcome Home." Injustice and treachery stalk grimly through the first feature at the Kingston with Nancy Carroll and the singing George Murphy catching most of the fireworks. The story tells of an ex-convict who becomes famous as a masked singer but who has the very devil of a time keeping his identity unknown. Love, however, solves the problem in the closing stanza of the film. "Welcome Home" is a

Events Around The Empire State

New York, Oct. 8 (AP).—The New York State Automobile Association was on record today as favoring an increase of the state police force so that traffic regulations on the state highways might be more rigidly enforced.

Another resolution adopted at the association's convention yesterday seeks to make registration of non-commercial automobiles a matter of identification and record rather than a source of revenue. The convention urged that safety committees be formed in state clubs to maintain an accident prevention program.

Binghamton, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP).—Mrs. Lena H. Whitmarsh, 28, of Oregon, was fatally injured yesterday when her automobile stalled on the railroad tracks at a crossing in Catonsville and she attempted to leap from the car while carrying a year-old baby. She stumbled and fell in front of a train while the baby bounced out of her arms and rolled off the tracks. The child was picked up unhurt.

New York, Oct. 8 (AP).—A campaign against fake champagne, allegedly purchased for $1 a bottle and sold in night clubs and restaurants for $12 under fake labels, was being waged today by the state liquor authority. The campaign started after complaints were received that a large restaurant was serving cheap carbonated wine as champagne. Wine and liquor samples were seized at several night clubs and restaurants for analysis.

Gloversville, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP).—The trial of four Long Lake residents on charges of illegal tree cutting in the Adirondacks was adjourned until the next term of Supreme Court at the request of attorneys yesterday. The charges were brought against the men by the state conservation department in an effort to recover penalties provided for violations of the conservation law.

Plane Crashes Take 14 Lives, 3 Missing

Wyo., Oct. 8 (AP).—Investigators searched the wreckage of a biplane today trying to learn why it crashed in the west with 14 lives and 3 missing.

The plane, apparently struck a hill and careened crazily for several hundred yards, scattering the bodies of its occupants over the rugged terrain.

Corporal Paul Worland said a the two pilots of the sleek twin-engine craft may have been overcome by carbon monoxide gas as it burst out by blood tests.

Whatever occurred happened early, though. Airline officials said the hour of the crash from instruments taken from the wreckage was less than two minutes after Pilot A. Collison had reported his position 15 miles west of here in preparation to land.

A revised list of the victims of the crash:

Pilot Collison, Salt Lake City.
George Batty, 27, Denver, Colo.
Leona Mason, 28, Kemmerer, Wyo., stewardess.

Juliet Hillman, Pittsburgh, Pa., stewardess.
Charles H. Matthews, Jr., Pittsburgh, Pa., banker.

Mrs. Coraly Cathcart, Portland, Ore.
Ray Bane, 40, Greeley, Colo.

John P. Cushing, Evanston, Ill., industrialist.
G. H. Miner, Chicago, business.

Heleen Warren, Chicago, Air Lines employee.
Robert Henry Renebome, Jr., former oil firm employee.

Vincent Butler, San Francisco, miner.
The other fatal accident at Lordeburg, N. M., brought flaming death to Lieut. Col. J. E. Davis of San Diego, marine air force commander, a fatal burns to his mechanic, Sergeant Q. M. Owens, also of San Diego.

Owens, who leaped from the plane, living torch, just before it smashed into a railroad embankment after taking off at the local field, died several hours later in a hospital. He was unable to give a comprehensive statement of the accident. The plane had stopped at Lordeburg to refuel on a flight from El Paso, Texas, to San Diego, Calif.

At Salt Lake City the search continued for the missing "Luxury" plane of the Standard Oil Company, reported since Sunday.

The search turned to northwest Utah upon the report of a railroad conductor that he saw a strange "blotch" high up on a mountain. Two days of hunting in the Great Salt Lake vicinity proved fruitless.

Aboard the plane were R. S. Allen, G. A. Lenz, co-pilot, and George C. Anderson, mechanic, all of Alameda, Calif.

Robert Spindler Dead at LeFever Falls

Robert Spindler, one of the leading residents of the town of Rosendale, died suddenly Monday at his home in LeFever Falls. Mr. Spindler was 65 years old and came to Ulster county in 1906 from New York, where he had formerly resided. Since that time he has been a resident of LeFever Falls. When he came to Ulster county to reside he purchased the old stone house known as the Clearwater property on the road leading from Maple Hill to LeFever Falls. The property was improved and became known as the LeFever Falls Mansion. Having a keen business mind, Mr. Spindler saw the possibilities of the town at that time was in a decline, due to the passing of the cement industry. Real estate at the time was without a market in the town and along the line of the old D. & H. Canal, but Mr. Spindler realizing the beauty of the Rosendale valley in the vicinity of Rosendale, engaged in the real estate business as a dealer. He purchased many properties in the town and after improving them sold them to New York city residents. His enterprise brought many city people to the town and largely through his efforts there was a revival in the sale of property in the town. Mr. Spindler interested many people in the beauty of the town and brought a number of boarding house owners to the locality and was instrumental in making the locality a summer resort. During his activities in the town he bought and sold over a hundred properties which he improved while in his possession.

In 1929 he sold the LeFever Falls Mansion to Otto Lange, who now conducts the place as a hotel. At the time Mr. Spindler moved to another smaller property on the same road at Maple Hill and had since been engaged in the boarding house business on a smaller scale. His guests of former years returned year after year to his home as guests.

Mr. Spindler was a veteran of the Spanish-American War, and having served in the navy and traveled widely, he was a most interesting talker and his acquaintances found him to be excellent company.

Beside his wife, Marie Kundler Spindler, he is survived by one son, Ino Spindler, who is married and has two sons, Robert and John at home. Funeral services will be held from the late residence at LeFever Falls, town of Rosendale, Thursday at 2 p. m. Interment in Rosendale Plains Cemetery.

New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—Uncle Sam's Naval Academy at Annapolis celebrates its 90th anniversary on Thursday with two broadcasts as part of the observance.

In the afternoon WABC-CBS at 2:30 will have Ted Husing details of the football game between Navy and Virginia, which has been advanced from Saturday so that it can be included in the ceremonies.

At night WEAF-NBC will present a 45-minute broadcast, to come from Annapolis, from naval vessels in the Atlantic and the Pacific, from the Atlantic fleet off Hawaii, from the Canal Zone and from the Caribbean. Rear Admiral P. F. Harrington, retired, and oldest living graduate of the academy, will speak from New York.

Patterned somewhat after last winter's special feature, "The American Scene," a Broadway night series, is to be conducted on WABC-CBS by Walter Pitkin, author and psychologist, under the title of "We Americans." It will originate from a different city each week, to be handled something like a man on the street broadcast. In "The American Scene," an attempt was made to bring out the thoughts of Americans in all walks of life. This one will do nearly the same, except that Mr. Pitkin intends to take his questions to delegates attending various regional gatherings, such as conventions, etc. The opener will be from Kansas City on October 19, at 8 p. m.

The New York Philharmonic will be in its 2-hour matinees on CBS next Sunday.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—Amendments to industrial code rules designed to improve the construction, maintenance and operation of fire alarm signal systems for factory buildings in New York state will be discussed at hearings within the next two weeks, the state industrial board announced today. Formation Flying By Local Airmen

Three planes started local housewives last evening when they took off from the Kingston Airport and flew in formation over the city. The planes, Taylor Cubs, flying at an altitude of 1,500 feet, were led in the conventional V formation by a bright yellow ship, owned by the Taylor Aircraft Company of Bradford, Pa. It was piloted by Bert Knauth. Flanking it on the right the familiar red and silver ship of Kingston was flown by Paul Swanson of this city. Opposite it a brilliantly painted black and red ship, piloted by Lee Lord of Walden held its place with precision. It was formation flying at its best and does great credit to local pilots.

The planes flew over the city performing various maneuvers and departed in the direction of Walden. Later two were seen returning to the local airport.
